The Casket in the Wood.

I have found a little maiden Neath the shadows of the wood, So deep within the forest wild I know she must be good. Her hair is brown and silken, Her eyes are dark and bright, Her voice is sweet and musical-Tho creature of delight!

Her heart is warm and sunny As a Southern summer's day; To me she is the fairest, So happy and so gay. But no doubt there are many maidens, In the cities and in town, Who would think her rather homely In her pretty Gingham gown.

Tis in the morning early That I wander to the stile, Just bofore sun has risen To greet us with a smile, To watch her cross the meadow, Mid the grasses green and long, And listen to the cadence Of her gentle plaintive song.

And in the pleasant evening, When the sun has gone to rest, And the breezes from the highland Fan the valley's heated breast, I love to join her in her rides Around the fields of gold, And listen to the teachings O her pure and guileless soul.

Though others may not love her-(There are many as fair and good) I shall ever truly hover 'Rounk the casket in the wood; And to shield her from the dangers That are hidden every where, Shall be to me a duty, An ever pleasant care. UNION COUNTY, KY.

A HAPPY WOMAN .- What spectacle more pleasing does the world afford than a happy woman, contented in her sphere, ready all the time to benefit her little world by her exertions, and transforming the briars and thorns of life into the roses of Paradise by the magic of her touch? There are those who are thus happy because they cannot help it-no misfortunes dampen their sweet smiles, and they diffuse a cheerful glow around them as they pursue the even tenor of their way. They have the secret of contentment, whose value is above the philosopher's stone; for, without seeking the baser exchange of gold, which may buy some sorts of pleasure, they convert everything they touch into joy. What their condition makes no difference. They may be rich or poor, high or low, admired or forsaken by the fickle world-but the sparkling fountain of happiness bubbles up in their hearts and makes them radiantly beautiful. Though they live in a log cabin, they make it shine with a lustre which Kings and Queens may covet, and they make wealth a fountain of blessings to the children of poverty. Happy women are progress of the race. Would there were enough to go round !

"When night with morning lingers, Awake and stiring be, And with your pretty fingers Clasp this about your knee.

When day with eve reposes, And stars begin to see, Unclasp this band of roses, And, dearest, think of me."

CAUSE OF AUBORA BOREALIS .- M. De la plains the production of the Aurora Borealis in the following manner:

When the sun having passed into the southern hemisphere, no longer heats our atmosphere, the aqueous vapor, which have kind of bumid cap enveloping the polar regions extends more, and facilitates the passage of electricity accumulated in the upper portion of the air, But in this elevated region, and especially at this period of the year, the aqueous vapors must most frequently pass into the state minute particles of ice or snow floating in the air, similar to those which give rise to the halos; they form, as it were, a kind of semi transparent mist. MAYSVILLE, THURSDAY, JULY 23

Bx-President Pierce's Speech. Our readers will be greatly indebted to us for copying the speech of Franklin Pierce, late President of the United States. It discusses some of the most essential issues of the times in a manner that must command unqualified admiration; for the speech is sound in principle, resistless in argumentative logic, lofty, noble and patrioticin spirit, and energetic and elegant in expression. But with all these attractions, its most valuable quality is, the earnestness and force with which he presents fundamental truths for the consideration of his countrymen-truths which concern the most essential rights of the people, the peace, prosperity, freedom and happiness of themselves and posterity, all now imperilled. Let every man read

The New Negro System in Louisiana ---How if Works.

The very intelligent correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, writing from Vicksburg, June 5th, says:

.It will be remembered that among other things done by Gen. Thomas during his recent visit to this department, was the leasing of a number of plantations, rebel propertyalong the Mississippi River, to men from the North. The Government agrees to furnish contrabands, and the lessees is to share the products of the soil with Uncle Sam. The the cards remaining in the box will be taken system appears to work badly, and will ultiout and counted, so as to verify the whole mately end, as usual, in the United States getting the worst of the bargain. The lessees are a scary set of fellows, and have names on the roll exactly in the order in so little confidence in the legality of their tenure to the lands, that they are continually raising a hue and cry about guerrillas hovering about them, and are continually appealing to the millitary authorities for protection. Acquiescence to their petitions would involve the transfer of Grant's Army to Louisiana, and the fortification of all their cotton-fields. The "leesee" policy is visionary. It looked well last winter, but looks in Maryland, who was never a Democrat, badly now. It will cost twice as much as the net proceeds of the farms to maintain in their vicinity as sufficient force to hold the guerrillas at bay.

FOOLSCAP. - Everybody knows what foolscap paper is; but few probably know how it came to bear this singular cognomen. When Charles 1, found his revenues short, he granted certain privileges, with a view to recruit them, amounting to monopoof paper, the exclusive right of which was sold to certain parties, who grew rich and enriched the Government also at the expense of those who were obliged to use paper. At this time all English paper bore in water-marks the royal arms. The Parlia - appointment, and to indicate the expectament under Cromwell made jests of this law in every conceivable manner; and, under other indignities to the memory of King Charles, it was ordered that the royal arms be removed from the paper, and the "fool's" cap and bells" be substituted. These, in their turn were also removed when the Rump Parliament was proroged; but paper of the Parliament Journal still bears the GENERAL MEADE'S DELAY .- Dispatches received yesterday represent that General Meade was himself in favor of attacking the rebel army while it was yet north of the Potomac, but yielded to the adverse opinions lies, and among these was the manufacture of four of his corps commanders. At a moment when he must regret, more keenly than any one else can, his disastrous mistake, we are unwilling to press criticism beyoud what is necessary, but it is our duty to declare the strength of the popular distion of the country that General Meade will in future command his own army and fight it in accordance with his own judgment --New York Tribune, 16th.

BEAUTIFUL AND TRUE. - Well has a writer said-"Flowers are not trifles, as one might know from the care God has taken of them everywhere; not one unfinished; not one bearing the marks of a brush or pencil.-Fringing the eternal borders of mountain waters, gracing the pulseless beat of the gray old granite, everywhere they are harmonizing.
